

Rocky Mountain AIChE News

January 2021

Volume 30 Number 4

January Section Meeting: Thermal Energy Storage Systems

Over the last decade, solar photovoltaic (PV) and wind power have become the lowest cost options for new generation in the electric grid. Yet solar and wind are intermittent energy resources, so how does one integrate large amounts of these resources in the electric grid? The full answer includes sophisticated grid balancing, demand-side management, and geog

